The Quary Degree

The degrees of Freemasonry are meant to be awe-inspiring experiences, using rich symbolism to impart millennia-old moral teachings to new generations.

Our newest Master Masons—Devon Woelki, Owen Jeff, Salvatore Cappucci, Eddie Torres, and Maxwell Smith—had the rare opportunity to see this symbolism come to life in a truly unique setting.

Thanks to a partnership with our friends at the Sterling Hill Mining Museum in Ogdensburg, we joined brothers from across the district to confer the Master Mason Degree in front of a phosphorescent quarry. We are deeply grateful to everyone who helped bring this unforgettable night together for the more than a dozen brothers who were raised.

Message from the East

Brethren,

As another Masonic year draws toward its close, I pause in the East to measure how far we have come, not in months or meetings, but in men.
These past six months, we have done the most sacred work a lodge can do. We have watched good men kneel at our altar in darkness and rise in light. To our newly raised Master Masons: welcome home. And to every Brother who coached a candidate, filled a chair, or simply showed up, this season belongs to you.
We were each asked at the door what we most desire, and we answered: Light. May that thirst never leave us. The day a Mason believes he has learned enough, he stops being a builder and becomes a monument. We were called to be living stones.
In a world growing louder and lonelier, the brotherhood we share upon the level is rare. Guard it. Call the Brother you haven't seen in a while. Sit with the one carrying something heavy. No link in our chain should ever have to hold on alone.
As the gavel passes to new hands, I am filled with optimism. Our incoming leadership brings energy, vision, and a sincere love for this lodge; support them as you have supported me. Our ranks are growing, our foundations are strong, and our best days are still ahead.
Serving you in the East has been one of the great honors of my life.

Fraternally,
Henry Archer
Worshipful Master

NOVEMBER 2026 MASON OF THE MONTH

Brother Daniel Silvershotz

This month, Musconetcong Lodge #42 proudly honors Brother Junior Steward Daniel Silverschotz as our Mason of the Month.

Brother Dan is one of our most reliable Brethren, always ready to show up and help wherever needed—from volunteering at our Sunday breakfasts to supporting GLI and every event we put on. Beyond his steadfast dependability, Dan brings a keen eye for detail, frequently catching the little things others miss to help keep Lodge operations running smoothly. His dedication to ritual was on full display when he stepped up as one of our newest Brethren to help exemplify the Master Mason Degree at GLI. In addition to his service on the floor, Dan brings rich insights from his professional career in estate sale management and antique sales, possessing an impressive knowledge of historic and Masonic artifacts that the Brethren eagerly look forward to learning about in his upcoming presentation.

We thank Brother Silverschotz for his vigilant craftwork, his dry humor always keeping us on our toes by bringing levity to our heavy work, for his ready willingness to lend a hand, his enduring commitment to the Craft, and for making our Brotherhood feel so much more like family.
